Death Valley Trip

On April 8 my sister and I took an All-States bus to Death Valley. On the way into the Valley we saw three bands of wild mustangs. The mountains surrounding the valley were spectacular. From the beginning of Death Valley to Furnace Creek Ranch where we stayed was approximately 75 miles. Before reaching Furnace Creek Ranch we visited Zabriskie Point where we could look down into Death Valley. There we took some pictures. Then we went on to the Furnace Creek Inn and visited Bad Water which is the lowest point -279.8 feet below sea level-in Death Valley, where we got specimens of the salt and of course took pictures.

Then we went to Furnace Creek Ranch which is a beautiful oasis in the midst of the barren wastes. It had a date palm orchard and sold dates at a dollar a pound. There were restaurants, stores, museum and camping places around on the ground floor of one of the several houses for tourists. On April 9 we left for Scotty's

Castle which was about fiftyfour miles from Furnace Creek Ranch in the northern part of Death Valley. On the way we visited the Ubehebe Crater which is about 500 feet deep and a half mile! in diameter. There I picked up some of the black lava. After we got to Scotty's Castle we had to wait for an hour before we could tour the Castle. It was called Scotty's Castle because Walter Scott claimed it was near his gold mine (non-existent) for which Scotty got lots of money for finding his gold mine which he never found. The castle was really built by Albert Johnson, a several times millionaire, beause he wanted a summer home here. Scotty was the caretak-••••••••••••••••••••••••••••

NEARLY 200 ATTEND MOSES MASON BIRTHDAY PARTY

Approximately 200 persons attended the birthday party held Sunday afternoon in the Moses Mason Museum commemorating the 191st anniversary of the birth of Dr. Moses Mason. The affair was held in conjunction with the Faye Taylor Memorial Art Show. Dr. Mason was born June 2, 1789, in Dublin, N. H., and moved to Bethel with his family when he was 10 years of age. He later became a physician, the town's first postmaster, a justice of the peace, selectman, county commissioner, Member of Congress, Governor's Councillor and a highly successful businessman, He married Agnes Straw of Newfield in 1913 and began his home on Broad Street that same year. The Masons were a popular couple and newspaper accounts indicate that they often entertained in their home.

The Doctor and Mrs. Moses Ma- the project, and that they are obby Ernest and Betty Perkins who were dressed in period costume. Ernest Perkins is a Mason descendant although the Doctor and his wife had no children.

Local artists Sue Wight, Don Bennett, Helen Morton and Carol Gersen, spent the afternoon sketching various features or exhibits in the period room through which visitors were allowed to roam freely just in the days of the Masons. Mrs. Nell Valentine quilted in the parlor.

An attractive birthday cake made by Diane Howe was the centerpiece of the dining room while strawberry punch was served in the winter kitchen. Members of the Museum Committee, Frances Harding, Judith Haskell, Floribel Haines, Marge Noll and Agnes Haines, dressed in period costume served the refreshments.

Cetters to the Editor

May 28, 1980 To the Editor:

One year ago almost to the day, residents of the Telstar district were horrified when five of their teenagers were drowned in an al-Everyone was crying out for "something to be done" to save our youth from this self destruc-

Since that time many forces have been working to answer these cries. As the problem has been studied, one factor which has surfaced loud and clear is that the adult population holds the key to solving this problem. When children see the adults, whom they respect and look to as their example, celebrating with alcohol everything from the healing of a torn hangnail to a promotion, they develop the idea that one must drink alcohol in order to properly commemorate a happy or sad occasion. If a teenager wants liquor, he does not have to look far before he finds someone of age to provide it.

The Great Keg Kaper is an excellent example of the careless, thoughtless manner adults employ to "help our children". The concept of the Treasure Hunt is great, but having the prize a keg of beer is clearly in conflict with what we are "teaching" our children. It is ironic that this should be planned for the very anniversary date Driver Education at Telstar Reof the tragedy one year ago. It is time people that you stop looking for scapegoats elsewhere and take a long hard look at the attitudes and guidance our youth

BETHEL TO HOST A MARATHON WEEK END ON JUNE 7-8

The Greater Bethel Chamber of Commerce will assist two organizations planning to hold major outdoor recreational events over the week end of June 7 and 8.

The Bethel Inn and The Maine Track Club will be holding a "Week End for Runners" both days of the week end with registration set for 8:30 a. m. at the Inn both days. On Saturday there will be a 10 km, race and on Sunday the course will be a half marathon On Sunday, the first major Anscoggin River canoe race is set for all classes of canoeists. The 35 mile marathon on flat water will start at the Shelburne bridge and end at the Madison Motor Inn. Registration begins at 8 a. m. at the bridge site. The 20-mile race, which is open to recreational class canoeists and beginners, will start at the Twin Oaks Camping Area in Bethel and end at the same place as the longer race. Registration will begin at 9 a. m. at the campground.

The canoe marathons are sponsored by the Androscoggin Canoe and Kayak Club which is a member of the American Canoe Association, the latter is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year.

There is a degree of eager anticipation attached to this canoe race because it marks the first time that the river has been clean enough for a major canoe race. FAYE TAYLOR MEMORIAL ART SHOW DRAWS FAVORABLE RESPONSE

The week-end art show at the Moses Mason Museum, which was named in memory of Faye Taylor, drew a favorable turnout to view paintings, prints and student art work from S. A. D. #44 schools and Gould Academy. The total attendance at the event was estimated at 350 or more. Over 130 exhibition pieces were on hand for the first Memorial Day week-end exhibit by the Bethel Historical Society.

Kent Taylor, Director of Development for Westbrook College in Portland opened the exhibition on Sunday. In his comments about the Society's special exhibition, Mr. Taylor said his mother "would be particularly pleased with the recognition given to her through the creation of an exhibition of this nature and would be especially pleased that the exhibition has served as a vehicle for the talent of so many of the region's younger students of art. When my mother returned to Bethel in the early 1950's she was struck by the need in a predominantly rural state for greater opportunities for the young people in the region to gain an awareness and appreciation for natural beauty which is so much a part of the landscape of Maine. It would have given her a great deal of satisfaction to see so many of the landscape works that are present in today's exhibition." Judith McLaughlin of West Paris won the Faye Taylor Landscape Award presented by the Bethel Savings Bank, Paul Cook from Gould Academy won first place in the senior division and Karen Viitala of Bethel was the first place winner in the elementary division of student artists. Other student artists who received awards and cash prizes were: Alain Crepin, second place in the senior division, and Brent Bachelder, a Telstar Middle School student, was third. Alain Crepin is an exchange student from France studying at Gould Acadwedding parties, anniversaries, etc. and Elementary School recently. The day consisted of a session followed by the business meeting.
